WASHINGTON DISPATCHES

WHAT THE AMERICANS PAY FOR THE EXPENSE OF HER ARMIES.

Some Interesting Figures Concerning Wars That Are Passed and Gone—The Salaries of Our Army Officers—Contract Labor Act—Other Washington News.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—While Washington is full of soldiers, who, although not experienced in battle or war, form our army that must protect our flag in any war we might become engaged in until volunteer troops could be drilled in the manual, it may not be amiss to go back through the records and give some figures concerning war that are past and gone. While only about eight nations of the globe spend more on their armies than does this government, we have always maintained a very small regular army.

The reason of the great cost of that small army may be found in the fact that our officers and privates are paid much more liberal salaries than those of most foreign nations. Our army costs us annually about $40,000,000. This, however, is only seventy-eight cents to each inhabitant. There are twenty-one other countries whose armies cost them more per capita than this.

The highest is France; she pays $3.23 for each inhabitant. Great Britain next in line pays $2.57 per capita. Russia has the largest standing army in the world, 790,000, with a war footing of 2,300,000. She also pays more for it than any one else. Every year $125,500,000 are expended in keeping this gigantic body of men together. The per capita cost is $1.27. Only one nation in the world has a larger army on a war footing than the United States and that is France. Her army at high water mark is a 700,000.

During the recent rumpus between the states, however, there were on the Federal side alone 2,900,000. There are no authentic records of the armies of the south. But if they were one half as large as their opponent we could have placed in the field an army of 4,200,000 in the sixties. For such an insignificant and small a country the Netherlands keep a very good sized army. They expend $9,000,000 a year on their army of 60,000 men. This is a per capita cost of $2.03.

A table compiled at the treasury department from official records showing the amounts expended on our army for each year from 1787 to 1886 exhibits some interesting facts. From 1789 to 1791 only about $600,000 was expended. The most expensive year was 1865, when our army expenses reached the enormous sum of $1,030,690,400. We made another splurge three years after the close of the war, in 1868, and spent over $123,000,000. Since that date the expenditures have ranged all the way from $32,000,000 in 1878 to $78,000,000 in 1880. In 1886 the expenditures were $14,324,153. The grand total of money expended in the maintenance of our armed land forces from 1789 to 1886 is $4,559,419,834, nearly one-fourth of which was used in 1865.

Contract Labor Act.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—An inquiry was recently submitted to the treasury department whether the persons living in Windsor, opposite Detroit, and engaged in clerical positions in Detroit could be included in the law prohibiting the importation of foreign labor in this country under contract. Assistant Secretary Maynard says they must be included if the law is rigidly enforced. In his judgment it was not the intention of congress to keep out that class of laborers, but the law was loosely drawn and is subject to so other construction. All along the Canadian border hundreds of such are employed in American houses who make their homes in Canada.

In many cases the employees have always been British subjects and others have made their homes there on account of the cheaper rates of living. The treasury department, it is understood, will not attempt to enforce the law in this case unless complaint is made, when it would be compelled to forbid the continuance of this practice. The enforcement of the law would entail several hardships upon thousands of people. It is thought that congress will be asked next winter to make some provisions for this class of employees. In the meantime it affords another strong argument in favor of the annexation of Canada to the United States now being agitated.

Battery B Wins.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Battery B. of Cincinnati, carried off the first prize at the competitive drill. Its competitor for the prize was Battery A, of Louisville. The following movements were gone through: First loading and firing; second, moving piece by hand; third, detachments; fourth, limbering and unlimbering; fifth, mechanical movements.

Listing Silver Certificates.

NEW YORK, May 30.—E. E. Willard and others interested in the listing of silver certificates at the stock exchange were soliciting signatures to the following addresses today: "The application to list silver certificates has been referred back by the governing committee to the committee on stock list for further information. The sub-committee will meet on Tuesday. It is hoped that all members of the stock exchange who feel an interest in this very important matter will either appear before the committee or send their views in writing to S. T. Russell, chairman. The issue of silver certificates, which will be made as soon as the plates can be prepared, is a matter that affects the financial and commercial interests of the United States to such an extent that it is important that action should be taken by the stock exchange as soon as possible."

Visited by Ku-Klux.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 30.—Miles Hammond, a wealthy farmer of Walker county, Georgia, was visited by ku-klux a few nights ago. Two weeks ago young Miss Kendrick, belonging to one of the best families in the state, was outraged by a negro. He was captured and came near being lynched. Hammond, it seems, did not like Miss Kendrick, and started scandalous reports. A band of masked men fantastically attired, rode to Hammond's home at midnight and whipped him. A bucket of tar and sack of feathers, which had evidently been intended for Hammond, were found near his house.

PECULIAR LAW SUIT.

A Son Sues His Father For the Enforcement of a Promise Made Years Ago.

CHICAGO, May 30.—Father and son were opposing litigants in a law suit before Judge Gaffney today. They were George Strong, Sr., a frosty-haired old gentleman from Wheeling, and George Strong, Jr., a middle-aged man, who sued for the enforcement of a contract made years ago by the father. It was in 1864. Mr. Strong, senior, at that time was the owner of a tidy lot of real estate. Many years before that he came from the east, purchasing a 200-acre farm at Wheeling, and settled down to till the land. At various times he added to his property holdings until, in 1864, he was a wealthy man, and he decided to do the handsome thing by his children. George's bill of complaint furnishes the data for this version of the story, and in this document it is said old Mr. Strong made the following proposition:

To his two sons, George, the complainant, and Joseph, a younger child, Mr. Strong offered to give the homestead, provided they would live on it till the younger was twenty-one, pay all the taxes and keep the land in good order. This property was to be divided equally between both boys. George avers that he and brother assented to the proposition and faithfully carried out their part of the contract, but declares the old man broke his. The court said that while possibly there was some justice in the claim, there was no law authorizing him to compel the defendant to deed over the property as he had promised to do.

A Rubber Monopoly.

NEW YORK, May 30.—It is understood that a meeting was held some time ago by a number of leading rubber manufacturers, the object of which was the formation of a "Rubber Trust." It is believed that no definite combination was effected, but that arrangements were agreed upon that will secure its final consummation. Earl Brothers and Flint &amp; Co., of this city, and G. A. Alden &amp; Co., of Boston, are the originators of the scheme. Earl Brothers acknowledge there is some truth in the story but refuse any further information. This country consumes two-thirds of all the crude rubber produced in the world, and a combination which could control this entire business would have a gigantic monopoly.

A Job for the Justice.

NEW YORK, May 30.—Justice Duffy, in the Tombs police court, this morning, received a letter from a Mrs. S. L. Strains, of Hannibal, O., directed to "An Honest Justice of the Peace." In the letter the lady states that she purchased $11.25 worth of goods from a dry goods house in this city, and an express company which was given the package to forward failed to bring it to her. She asks the judge to get the price of the goods from the express company and send it to her, and then collect his fee from the express company.

Northwestern Crop.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 30.—Special reports to the Pioneer Press show that crops in Northern Minnesota and Dakota are in good condition. In Southern Minnesota and some of the older countries there are complaints of rain needed, as the recent showers are not sufficient. The drought in central Wisconsin continues unbroken, and wheat is actually suffering, though corn looks well. Rain is also needed in Northern Iowa, though no damage is yet reported.

Natural Gas for Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 30.—Indianapolis will have natural gas. Judge Martindale, president of the Indianapolis Gas company, said this morning that his company would accept the provisions of the ordinance recently passed by the council, and pipe the gas into the city. The ordinance fixes the price to be charged for the gas, and provides that gas shall be furnished to all the city buildings free of charge.

Big Time at Fortland.

FORTLAND, Ind., May 30.—Our city was visited by 1,000 people from Fort Wayne and Richmond Friday to see our gas wells. Ben Butterworth, of Cincinnati, addressed a large audience on the benefits of natural gas, and predicted a brilliant future for Fortland. With the last well here and wells at Dunkirk, this country, makes the output every twenty-four hours fifty million feet in Jay county.

Score Another for Texas.

TYLER, Tex., May 30.—A scientific expert from Philadelphia, who, together with several gentlemen of his place, has for some weeks been testing the mineral resources adjacent and tributary to Tyler, reports that these sections contain enough iron ore of a quality superior to that of Pennsylvania and Alabama to supply all the furnaces in the world for one hundred years.

Natural Gas Explosion.

MARION, Ind., May 30.—The natural gas works at the Fairmount works ignited from an explosion caused by the night watchman's lantern, and destroyed the building and derick. The pipes were also blown out, and the gas is now burning beyond control, fully 13,000,000 being consumed daily. James Payne and George Rachel, employees, were seriously burned.

Leg Terribly Crushed.

BUCKEYS, O., May 30.—While James Kendall was assisting in unloading a heavy monument, it slipped off the plank down which it was being slid, and caught Albert Kendall's leg, crushing and mangle it so severely that the doctors think amputation will be necessary to save the man's life.

Street Car Strike Spreading.

NEW YORK, May 30.—It is not improbable that there may be a tie-up on the Park avenue horse car lines in Brooklyn. The directors of the Indianapolis road, whose employees are on a strike, are also interested in this Brooklyn line. The Indianapolis strike threatens to extend also to Cleveland, because Cleveland street car men have a controlling interest in the Indianapolis line.

German Bark Seized.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—Customs officers have seized the German bark Nautilus, recently from Hamburg. The vessel was searched and $3,000 worth of Havana cigars and French brandy found. The brandy was contained in boxes labeled "Salt Pork." The search will be continued and a number of arrests will probably be made.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

R. G. DUN &amp; CO.'S SPECIAL REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF BUSINESS.

The Crop Prospects Greatly Improved By Recent Heavy Rains Where Most Needed—Effect of the Interstate Commerce Law—Financial Outlook.

NEW YORK, May 30.—R. G. Dun &amp; Co.'s weekly trade review says: The most important news of the week is also the best—that crop prospects have decidedly improved. In view of the great speculations in wheat and cotton, and the false reports carefully circulated by interested parties, it is of service to know that our own agents telegraph from Wisconsin, "Local rains have helped the agricultural districts;" from Minnesota, "Rains throughout the northwest very materially improve crop prospects;" from Kansas City, "Prospects excellent for exceptionally large crops, recent copious rains of great benefit;" and from New Orleans, "Crop prospects generally good," and these are samples of favorable dispatches from nearly all quarters.

The fear of injury thus far seems satisfactorily removed, and if harm to wheat or cotton is to come, it must be from climatic influences in the future. This good news to the whole country is disheartening, however, when financial prospects have come to depend upon the success of gigantic speculations for an advance in prices of products. The financial future is also affected by the large receipts of the treasury, amounting, for ten months and twenty days, to $31,612,867 more than receipts for the same part of the previous year. At the same rate the treasury must take from the markets a very large sum every month, after the last call for three per cent. matures July 8, and was hinged on dispatches stating that the administration will purchase bonds with great reluctance, if at all.

The last statement of the New York banks showed an increase of loans and reserves, because Mr. Manning's new bank was the first included, but the drain of money to Chicago to meet the demands of speculation, still continues, the return to that point from the interior being retarded by real estate and other activity extensively prevailing.

Foreign commerce does not improve. April imports exceeded exports by $15,973,975, an excess equaled in one month of 1882, after the partial failure of crops, and in no other months since 1872. New York exports to May fell 1.7 per cent. below those of last year, with imports exceeding those of last year by 17.3 per cent. which would fore-shadow an excess of about $14,000,000 in imports this month.

The prevailing speculations, rather than the interstate act, cause the decline in exports, for shipments of grain by lake and rail are made without regard to local rates. In cotton the exports are hardly a quarter of those of May, 1886, and artificial prices for pork products also cause a decrease of shipments.

The interstate commission has not yet revoked its order of suspension, but all information tends to the belief that it will do so, and points to a rigid enforcement of the act. Much complaint is made even now, with the rate-for-distance rule and everywhere enforced, of the transfer of trade from large to smaller towns, and from eastern to interior cities.

A great number of suits commenced and complaints filed indicate that costs of transportation will be increased rather than diminished. Earnings still are large and encouraging, but a war of rates in the northwest results from "milling in transit" contracts issued by the St. Paul and other roads, and the competition of Canadian and water routes is felt more severely every week.

Accounts from nearly all quarters are decidedly favorable. At Philadelphia trade is languid, and there is some complaint of slow collections; at New Orleans money is rather tighter, and at Cincinnati collections are fair, with room for improvement, but other reports indicate active trade for the season, a good supply of money for all legitimate business and collections satisfactorily prompt.

In the iron trade, Pittsburgh hopes to see many "banked" furnaces set at work again by a reduction in the price of coke and the termination of the strike. It is also believed at Detroit that the great strike of stove molders will end this week; and work be resumed. A better trade in tobacco is noted at Cincinnati, and the real estate excitement does not abate. The great sale at West Nashville resulted satisfactorily, with heavy purchases by eastern investors, and prices are sustained with great confidence at Omaha and other western points by more favorable crop prospects.

The coffee market, after a week of advancing prices, declined sharply Friday morning. Wheat gained little during the week, and the collapse of the clique is by many apprehended. Hogs and pork products, with cattle, were a shade lower, and sugar, cotton and oil a little stronger. No definite improvement appears in the market for woolen goods, and the great auction sale of flannels causes hesitation, but the market for cottons is healthy and strong.

The business failures during the last seven days number for the United States 153, for Canada 22, a total of 175 against 180 last week, and 181 the corresponding week of last year.

THREE FATALITIES.

Three People Killed by Lightning in the Vicinity of Saratoga.

SARATOGA, N. Y., May 30.—Three fatalities were caused by yesterday afternoon's storms in this vicinity. About 5:30 o'clock Morris Harris, a tenant on the Greenfield estate of the Hon. T. B. Carroll, was instantly killed by lightning which struck his wagon house, in which he had taken refuge from the storm. The wagon house was damaged $500. Harris leaves a family.

At Mechanicville, Charles Warren was struck and instantly killed by the electric fluid while at work on Orley Bowen's barn. In Hartford, Washington county, while Ira Warren and three sons were engaged in cutting seed potatoes in the storehouse of their farm, a thunderbolt entered at the corner of the building, killing Henry, aged fifteen years, and stunning the other three, who, however, soon recovered.

Indian Outbreak Feared.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 30.—Another Indian outbreak now appears certain. This time between the Canadian Bloods and the American Grosventres. Some time ago the Grosventres crossed the line, killed several Bloods and ran off 100 of their horses. Thursday the Bloods retaliated by going into the Grosventres country and attacking the American Indians. Several of the latter were killed and forty horses captured by the Canadians. Both tribes have donned their war paint and a "battle involving all the Indians on each side of the line is more than probable. A large detachment of mounted police is on its way to the scene of the trouble and will try to effect a settlement.

Presidential Party at Prospect House.

UPPER SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., May 29.—The presidential party has arrived at Prospect house, having driven over in buck boards from Paul Smith's, where they left the train. They are quartered in Dr. Dunton's cottage, near Prospect house. The trip by rail was not very eventful. Short stops were made at Rutland, Burlington, Manchester, St. Albans and Malone, and the president shook hands with as many persons in the crowds as could be reached from the car platform where he stood. There were no speeches. Dr. and Mrs. Roseman, of Brooklyn, accompanied the party.

Confessed to Murder on His Death-Bed.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 30.—Wallace Christian, of Fisherville, Ind., confessed on his death-bed recently that he had murdered his brother fifteen years ago for the sake of the property they had jointly accumulated, and buried the body under the hearth of their residence. The remains of the murdered brother were found yesterday and buried beside the grave of Wallace. The crime was never suspected, as Wallace had given out that Isaac had gone to Florida, and the complete verification of the confession has caused great excitement in Fisherville.

Escaped From Sing Sing.

NEW YORK, May 30.—Henry Stewart, who was sentenced last November to ten years imprisonment for robbery, escaped from Sing Sing prison yesterday. He was employed in the laundry, and it is conjectured that he secreted himself in a packing case, where he remained until after the case had been lifted into a railroad car and the car closed. A convict's suit was found in the car, and it is considered certain that the men employed in removing the cases from the laundry were in league with him. A reward of $50 has been offered for his recapture.

Gets Three Years in the Pen.

PORTSMOUTH, O., May 30.—Judge Dever this morning sentenced Charley Williams, a fourteen-year-old boy, to three years in the penitentiary for manslaughter. Williams killed Benjamin Ball, Sr., several weeks ago. Young Williams' parents occupied a house rented from Ball. On the day of the murder young Williams and some other boys were playing with fire in the yard, and it being a windy day, Ball, who saw the boys, remonstrated, fearing destruction of property, and in the quarrel which ensued Williams shot and fatally wounded the old man.

Thirty-Five Families Burned Out.

NEW ORLEANS, May 30.—Yesterday afternoon a fire broke out in front of the Sixth district of the old city of Jefferson, and the best part of four blocks was destroyed. Thirty tenements, a school house and a factory were burned, and a great deal of other property was ruined. The loss amounts to $500,000, divided among thirty-five families, some of whom owned their homes and lost everything.

Charlie Ross Heard From Again.

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—Christian K. Ross, the father of the lost Charley Ross, received a visit from a stranger yesterday, who told him that his son was serving a sentence in a Connecticut prison. Mr. Ross has been so much distressed and tormented with false reports for the past thirteen years or thereabouts that he does not place much faith in the man's story.

National Convention of Dunkers.

EATON, O., May 30.—The annual National convention of the German Baptists, better known as the dunkers or trunks, will begin its session in a grove four miles southeast of here to-morrow, on the farm of Josiah Furray, and will continue for several days. The attendance will be very large, and representatives will be here from all parts of the United States.

Hailstones as Large as Walnuts.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, May 30.—A heavy rain, followed by the most severe hailstorm known for years, passed over this place last evening. The hailstones ranged up to the size of a walnut, and a great deal of glass was broken. The extent of the storm is not known, but in its course growing crops were much beaten and damaged.

Terribly Injured.

TIFFIN, O., May 30.—Ralph Allen, aged ten, son of C. B. Allen, fell from a shade tree on to an iron fence yesterday evening, running an iron picket into his thigh about five inches. It required two men to pull him off, and the injury will probably result fatally.

New Legislative Candidate.

DANVILLE, Ky., May 30.—Gen. Speed S. Fry will make the race for the legislature in this county against the Democratic nominee, W. J. Lyle. The fight promises to be a lively one.

Indian School Burned.

FORT MADISON, Iowa, May 30.—The large brick structure, known as White's Manual Labor institute, twenty miles west of this city, used as a school for a large number of Indian children, burned to the ground yesterday afternoon. No particulars.

$7,000 Damages.

OSHKOSH, Wis., May 30.—In the case of Mrs. M. Tolliver vs. the Wisconsin Central railway, for $50,000 damages for injuries received in an accident between Ashland and Eau Claire, the jury awarded $7,000 to the plaintiff. She sued for $50,000.

Death of an Old Showman.

NEW YORK, May 30.—Lewis B. Lent, for fifty years a showman, died at his home here aged seventy-four, on Thursday. He had made and lost several fortunes, and died a rich man.

Financial Condition of Kentucky.

The Covington Commonwealth says: "The Maysville Republican is wasting its time in an effort to excite prejudice against the Democratic party of Kentucky on account of the financial condition of the State. The people are not at all disturbed by that question. If they think about it all they are thankful that the debt is so small and the financial condition of the State so good.

There is probably not another State in the Union in better financial condition than Kentucky.

Kentucky has a small debt, the amount of which would not worry the people of a thriving town of 10,000 inhabitants.

There is not an intimation that a dollar of the people's money has been stolen under Democratic administration of the State affairs.

It is simply impossible for the Republicans to convince the people that they would have managed affairs with more prudence.

The history of the Republican party is marked by extravagant use of the people's money.

The Republican is ploughing a barren field."

THE Observer says the reason Phil Armour is shipping Chicago beef to Lexington is because the local butchers have been making fifteen-cent meat out of three-cent cows.

THE assessed value of property in Fayette County, as reported by the State Board of Equalization, amounts to $20,898,281, and the county levy of Fayette has been fixed at 38 cents on the $100, which will yield about $76,000 taxes.

At Louisville, the other day, a lawsuit involving $25 was brought in the justice court of a German Magistrate. The lawyers on either side were Germans. The jury summoned were Germans, and the case was tried throughout in that tongue. Mein Got!

THE Republicans are prating a good deal about illiteracy in Kentucky. There may be, and undoubtedly are, a good many people in this State who cannot read and write, but they are not all here. Massachusetts has over 120,000 in that condition, and Massachusetts is a Republican State, and has been one for years.

THERE are booms and booms—a Blaine boom, a Sherman boom, an Allison boom and a dozen other booms—but the boss boom of them all is the Grover Cleveland boom. He is on top, and there is not a sensible politician in the land who does not feel that the country is at his back, and his re-election next year a most probable event.

THE postoffice at Drennon Springs would not have been discontinued had Mr. Blaine been elected President. It was at Drennon Springs that Prof. J. G. Blaine received his mail during the latter half of his life in Kentucky, and it was there that he made love to a Kentucky woman long after his alleged secret marriage to his present wife. Drennon Springs may have another show in '89.

"THE EVENING BULLETIN says the Odd-fellows of Richmond, Ky., will give a picnic on the 15th of June. As the BULLETIN never makes a mistake, we presume the Odd-fellows of Richmond will have to change their date. The official announcement, which is before us, says the picnic will be given on "Wednesday, June 22nd."—Daily Republican.

The BULLETIN has no apology to make for its statement that the picnic would be held June 15th. We got the information either from the Richmond Herald or some other paper published in Central Kentucky. We might add that the Republican didn't discover the alleged mistake. As usual it had to rely on an outsider.

Pithy Points From Washington.

It may appear a little higher-toned to sell whisky by the quart than by the drink, but the man who sells by the quart does infinitely more harm than the one who sells by the drink.

What does it matter to some men, so as they are making money, how many of their fellows they succeed in ruining by the nefarious business of selling whisky?

What do such men care how many poor children go to bed hungry and wretched, so that they get the money which should go to buy these children food and clothing?

We contend that the liquor traffic in any of its branches is a supremely selfish one, and that were it not for the money made out of it men would shun it as they do the plague.

One reason that the whisky business carries such a high head is because it is winked at by so many. Now no man who handles it in any way ought to be countenanced by the church, no matter if he gives every cent he makes to it.

There is one place where no fault can be found with the working of prohibition. We mean a steamboat where no whisky is sold. On one of these you now see no disgusting exhibition of drunkenness, hear no vile nor profane talk, see no gambling &c. What a change for the better!

The Big Sandy Company deserves the thanks of every man and woman, who regards decency, in that they have done away with the administration of whisky on their boats, and their line should be patronized by all who value sobriety and virtue.

Who would not rather trust his or her life on a boat where the captain, pilot and others who had her in charge, were known to be sober men, rather than on one where whisky ruled? We are of the opinion that even a whisky dealer would prefer the former.

Let no man for a moment roll it as a sweet morsel under his tongue that because he is a druggist or grocer and sells whisky by the quart, he is one whit above the man who hands the same abominable stuff across the counter; for they are all in the same craft, and all any of them are after is the money, and none of them care a baubee whose children are crying for bread, so as they hear the jingle of this.

OUR ACQUIRED TASTES.

THEIR GREAT INFLUENCE OVER THE MIND AS WELL AS BODY.

The Overpowering Desire for the Bizarre and Abnormal—Malformations and Monstrosities—A More Agreeable Side of This Question—Artificial Wants.

But it is not alone in the grosser forms that acquired tastes show their enormous power and influence. Dissipation is not synonymous with intoxication or narcotism, and may and does exist in things less material than appetites and carnal desires and passions. The intellect, the will, the mind, the soul—call it which name you will—is subject to the same general law and equally under the dominion of acquired tastes.

As an illustration, take the numerous examples of the overpowering desire for the bizarre and abnormal which has characterized so many men, and women, too, of undoubted intellect and rare mental powers. It may be assumed that no sane person is born with a taste for the hideous; that no woman is by nature attracted to scenes of cruelty; that no man of education or refinement takes a natural delight in visiting scenes of gross debauchery or witnessing the lowest forms of bestial sensuality. Yet history, and modern history at that, is full of instances of men and women who have become infatuated with all these things, and whose chief and only pleasure has been in seeing, hearing and reading incidents of cruelty, of bloodshed and of unbridled licentiousness.

Another illustration of this is found in the morbid desire which many people evince to see cases of malformation and monstrosities. To their vitiated tastes the most perfect human form or the most exquisite triumph of the sculptor's art possesses no such attractions as the Siamese twins or the bearded woman. Physical evil has become good in their eyes, and they find beauty only in ugliness and deformity.

A MORE AGREEABLE SIDE.

There is still another side to this question, more agreeable, but none the less illustrative of the general truth of the proposition, that acquired tastes are stronger than the natural disposition. We refer to the taste for the luxuries and elegances of life, whether in the matter of eating and drinking or in those more intellectual matters of personal adornment, of home beautifying, of book collecting and all the other varied developments of aestheticism. No one ever heard of an excess in eating caused by simple food. The man is yet to be born who will surfeit himself on bread and water. In those primitive countries where the women wear an apron of bark or leaves and the men do not, no one ruins himself in tailor's bills, nor where the family mansion is a hut or wigwam is the proprietor forced into bankruptcy by the dealer in rare books or art treasures. Their simple and natural tastes do not lead them into reckless extravagance in the matter of wood carvings or old china or artistic decorations. All these things are the outgrowth of civilization and are purely artificial wants. There is no intrinsic difference in useful qualities between tweed and broadcloth, or between calico and satin, and yet the taste for the more costly material is all but universal, and too often indulged at the cost of credit and comfort, and sometimes of reputation.

Under these conditions the partition wall between wants and needs often gets broken down, and the distinction disappears. The strength of the acquired taste is so great as to overshadow the perceptions and obliterate the difference between real necessities and those that are only imaginary, and in consequence life is made miserable by the struggle for the unattainable and the energies of a lifetime are wasted in striving to satisfy wants that are purely artificial.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Finger Nails in England.

The American hand is smaller than the English hand, but the nails are not as handsome. The English nails are almost universally rosy and shell like, and, cut to a rounded, slightly tapering point, kept always scrupulously clean. The skin at the base is pushed back to show the onyx, a little white half moon. The onyx is carefully cultivated and polished by the creoles of New Orleans, to show that they have no black blood in their veins. No matter how fair the complexion, the valuable insignia of pure blood is wanting to the octoroon if the onyx is clouded. With persons who employ a manicure the onyx develops every day more and more.

With those who are careless of this precious gem of a beautiful hand the onyx is sometimes completely hidden. It is always observable in a well kept English hand.

The American nail suffers from the dryness of our climate, as a foreign picture painted on panel suffers from the same cause.—New York World.

Banks of Deposit:
 CORN EXCHANGE BANK,
 FARMERS' LOAN AND TRUST CO.

This well-known and prosperous company, organized under the laws of the State of New York, having secured a large and rapidly increasing membership, furnishes each member with guaranteed life insurance at cost, has resolved to adopt a new and special feature that has not yet been adopted by any Life Insurance Company in this country. This feature consists of classifying in one section all members who are from the use of intoxicating beverages. In England there are several Life Insurance Companies that make a specialty of insuring the lives of total abstainers, and their experience demonstrates the fact that

TOTAL ABSTAINERS

The Rate of Mortality IS ONE-THIRD LESS

among Total Abstainers than it is among any other class of persons insured. The experience of the United Kingdom Temperance and General Provident Institution of England, extending over a period of forty-five years, shows in the rate of mortality. Other companies have experienced similar results. The NATIONAL BENEFIT SOCIETY has determined to give to the total abstainers of this country an opportunity to secure to themselves the full benefits of the total abstinence principles, so far as they affect the matter of Life Insurance. They have therefore formed a into which all the total abstainers will be grouped. All accounts will be kept distinct from the general business of the Company, and the members in the temperance section will be assessed to pay only the losses that occur in that section. By this arrangement the total abstainers have the full benefit of the lesser rate of mortality experienced among the temperance men; this being, as shown by experience, one-third less than it is among the average persons insured,

AN ADVANTAGE IN FAVOR OF TOTAL ABSTAINERS OF 33 PER CENT.

THE COST OF INSURANCE WILL

and thus a practical illustration is given of the immense advantages accruing to those who lead a strictly temperate life.

This company also does a

General Life Insurance

business in addition to this temperance section. my23dlw-13tw

DECORATION DAY.

[The following was handed to us with the statement that it was written by May Gallagher, aged seven, of Clinton, Ohio. We do not vouch for the authorship.]

Bring flowers, sweet flowers, the poet said,
The lingering echo is not dead;
Through great highways o'er bounding waves,
Bring flowers to deck a million graves.

Bring roses red, and lilies white,
For fallen heroes in the fight,
For soldier boys we loved so well,
Plant mignonette and immortelle.

The leaders brave who faced the foe,
Full many, many sleep below,
For such green mounds or granite tomb,
Bring balmy flowers in all their bloom.

Yea, North and South and East and West,
Where'er a soldier lies at rest,
Whether the "blue" or whether the "gray,"
Strew dewy garlands on this day.

You who can give but your small mite,
Bring from the fields the daisies white,
Sweep butter cups and golden rod
To strew upon the sacred sod.

Bring flowers, sweet flowers, from far and near,
Oh, men and maids and children dear,
Remember well our Nation's braves;
Bring flowers to deck a million graves.

ANOTHER "SYNDICATE."

Maysville Citizens Secure a Franchise for a Street Railway at Muncie, Ind., and will Build at Once.

Messrs. W. W. Ball and A. M. Campbell have been visiting Muncie, Ind., quite frequently in the past month or two, and their visits have not been for the sole purpose of inspecting the natural gas wells at that place, either. At Muncie they found a wide-awake city of about 10,000 inhabitants. The place was enjoying a boom on account of the big gas wells that had been sunk, and which are flowing millions of feet of gas daily. Real estate was in demand, and speculation in that branch of business was the main thing that engaged most everybody's attention.

But there was one thing Messrs. Ball and Campbell did not find at Muncie. There was no street railway. Believing that such an enterprise would pay in such a city, they set to work to secure a franchise for one. They interested some of their friends here at Maysville in the undertaking, and in addition to this secured the active co-operation of several of the most prominent citizens of Muncie. There were two or three other "syndicates" after the franchise. The Maysville people, however, got there in good style, but only after a hard fight.

At a meeting of the City Council of Muncie last Thursday night the ordinance granting the franchise was passed under a suspension of the rules. It reads that "consent, permission and authority are hereby given and granted to and duly vested in A. M. Campbell, W. W. Ball and L. W. Robertson and their associates, and their successors or assigns, to be known as the Muncie City Railway Company, to construct, lay down and operate a single or double track railway, with first-class equipments for the transportation of passengers, freight, baggage, packages, &c., with the right to construct and lay down all necessary and convenient tracks, turnouts, switches and sidetracks, in, on, along and over the streets and alleys of said City of Muncie, State of Indiana, and also to connect the car stables with the tracks, and also the right to construct and lay down the necessary curves to make connection with the tracks at the different junctions and crossings of any street along the line of said railroad, and to keep, maintain, use and operate thereon railway cars and carriages, by horse power, electricity or cable system, for the full period of twenty-five (25) years from and after the passage of this ordinance."

The ordinance requires the parties within thirty days to form a corporation with a capital of not exceeding $100,000, to own and operate said road, and it also requires that as much as four miles of the road shall be in operation by August 1st, 1888. The company is required to execute bond in the sum of $5,000 to keep streets between the rails in good repair.

It is the intention of the parties interested to form the corporation at once. It will require $50,000 to build and equip the road, we are informed, and no trouble is expected in securing this amount. We might add that there are quite a number of Maysville people not mentioned above, who are interested in the matter.

Pat. Quinn, living near North Fork bridge, had his barn destroyed by fire Saturday night. Twenty thousand pounds of tobacco belonging to himself and a colored man, named Nelson Green, and all of his farming implements were burned.

She's Almost Ripe.

The Owensboro Messenger says: "Of all sad days in the glad new year, the saddest are those that are almost here, when the giddy girl in the cheese-cloth gown, in the city, the country and backwoods town, comes teetering out in the footlight's flare, and, with simpering voice and vacant stare, delivers herself in the tomb-like hush of a silly lot of commencement gush. But away, these tears of vain regret, there's a basket here—'twill be used—you bet."

Hon. W. H. Wadsworth.

Hon. W. H. Wadsworth arrived home from Minneapolis by the steamer Bonanza, Saturday night. His many friends will be gratified to learn that he reached here in moderately good health, although he will need quiet and rest for several days before he is fully restored. He was accompanied by Mr. Eugene Robinson and Mrs. Jno. M. Stockton.

Mr. Wadsworth was in the midst of his speech when he was suddenly taken sick with heart trouble. He came near fainting away and was only prevented from falling to the floor by some one near him. Medical aid was summoned immediately and every attention rendered. The Nelson will case has attracted general attention over the country. The best legal talent be found was engaged on either side. Mrs. Stockton will appeal the case.

There was one addition to the Methodist Episcopal Church last night.

Marshal Ed Whitaker Dead.

A dispatch was received by Nelson Whitaker this morning announcing the death of his brother, Marshal Ed Whitaker, at Georgetown, O., at 11 o'clock last night. The BULLETIN's readers are acquainted with the particulars of the murderous assault upon Marshal Whitaker at that place Monday, May 23rd, by Henry Bascom Campbell, who waylaid him and fired the contents of an old musket into his right side. The physicians gave no hopes from the first, and the Marshal's death had been hourly expected for several days. The deceased was a native of New Hampshire, having been born at West Lebanon on the 29th of May, 1830. He served in the Confederate army, holding the rank of Captain in J. S. Price's company. His wife, who was a Miss Higgins, and two children, a son and daughter, survive him.

The Georgetown Gazette says: "Marshal Whitaker held his office longer than any other man who ever resided there, and was the only man who ever was able to preserve order in the place. He was a holy terror to the element who are general disturbers, and while he may have had enemies who hated him because he did his duty, yet the whole community are in a state of mourning."

Funeral services and burial will take place this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

JOHN BENNETT, who has been bossing a force of hands at a rock quarry a short distance above the Ripley ferry-landing, skipped out the other day, taking with him $118 in cash and a silver watch. He had been sent the money to pay the hands off with, and the watch belonged to another party. His present whereabouts are unknown. Bennett is the party who was so badly shot and wounded by Charles Ramsey about one year ago, for which offense Ramsey is now serving a term in the "pen."
